

These corporations who want to own even more of the media know that the pen is mightier than the sword. They just want to own all the pens.